10:00 AM—1hr—Rhode Island

It is difficult to think spiritually and kinkily at the same time for many people. There is an expectation that if you are a church goer, you should not be interested in sexual things. Compartmentalizing your kink and your spiritual side can cause stress and anxiety, though. Our interfaith worship service this morning will be brief, but heartfelt and honest. Let's take a moment to open ourselves, to share in the Divine in its many forms, and to commune with one another in an accepting way.

8:00 PM—1hr 30min—Patriots

In this class, we're going to create fun, energetic, sexy experiences that will bring us back to the real reason most of us love rope bondage: connection. We'll tap into our bodies and brains to create a kickass cocktail of sensual goodness, and you'll leave with body/brain techniques you can use any time you want to go deeper in your rope play. This is very much a hands-on, interactive class - observers and voyeurs are welcome, but you'll have a heck of a lot more fun if you bring a partner, a few pieces of rope, and a yoga mat or a beach towel.

Beyond 50 Shades: Realities of Power Exchange: D/s Dynamics for the Beginner or Battle-scarred—Power and Authority Exchange—Fri 8:00 PM—1hr 30min—Wickford

Love it or hate it, the 50 Shades series has opened the floodgates of interest in power exchange, which is both good news and bad. The good news? It has acted as a catalyst, awakening many people to dominant or submissive desires that may have otherwise remained buried for years or even a lifetime. The bad news? Many of those newly awakened people may never venture beyond the books (and now, the movie) as their source of "education" - equating those fictional, fantasy portrayals of power exchange as fact. Regardless of how your interest in exploring power exchange dynamics began, if you are ready to investigate what lies beyond the boundaries of a scene on Saturday night, you will want to attend this interactive presentation. We will explore the range of power exchange structures, from Top/bottom to 24/7 TPE (total power exchange) like M/s (Master/slave) and O/p (Owner/property) and how to find a form that fits your needs and desires. Be prepared to take notes (or have someone take them for you) as we delve into: + commonly used "lifestyle" labels and their definitions + important points to consider when constructing your power dynamic + potential pitfalls and how to avoid them + what to do when it isn't working the way you thought it would. At the end of this presentation, you will hopefully have an expanded understanding of your relationship desires so you can enjoy deeper, more fulfilling connections; regardless of how you choose to exchange power with others.

Sexual abuse and intimate partner violence are epidemics that cut across all gender, racial, economic, and cultural lines. In this class, we will drill down to the fundamentals of human connection as they relate to kink and power exchange relationships. We will challenge the common narratives and turn preconceived notions about abuse inside out. Will also will explore how abuse can manifest, how communities and individuals can respond to abuse, and how to promote a culture of transparency and healing. How do we determine whether or not to have such a conversation? Helpful to * Those considering telling a friend or family. * Those considering speaking to a romantic partner about their BDSM interest. * Those who want to be prepared if unexpectedly outed or discovered.

With a little creativity and a lot of discipline, a top-notch servant can be created out of almost anyone.

Introduction to Sacred Sexuality: An Overview—Spirituality—Sat 10:45 AM—1hr 30min—Rhode Island

What is Sacred Sexuality?? It's become a buzzword in the kink community, the alternative healing community, the yoga community...you may even here it referred to in hushed tones in more open minded mainstream religions. But what is it, exactly? Is it just Tantra? Is it a form of sexual intimacy only open to those who are believers in a sentient God? This class will go over, in a general way, the various paths that fall under the umbrella of 'Sacred Sexuality'.

Kink and Disability—General Skills—Sun 1:45 PM—1hr 30min—Tiverton

We can't all be perfect specimens of physical and mental health. In fact, many of us are in some way for lack of a better word, broken. This may pre-date our involvement in kink or even in sexuality at all. Or it could be a recent development. This can take many different forms and can affect our lives, and yes our sex lives in a wide variety of ways. Let's get together and discuss issues such as: how does one explore safe play with new physical limitations, how do we find satisfying substitutions for favored activities that may now have become off limits, and how do we talk to a play partner about our physical or emotional boundaries without freaking them out.

We'll be looking into psychology, health, tips on how to get more recycled water... and explore ways to incorporate this delightfully taboo body fluid into play!

Making a Skill a Scene—General Skills—Sat 4:30 PM—1hr 30min—Greenwich

Yes ... you can flog, or use a whip, or a cane. Maybe you're great with needle play or fire play. These are skills that we can quickly pick up, but there is a difference between the use of the implement for a sensation experience, and making the use of a single skill a great scene. This becomes the difference between those who might be able to "use a flogger" vs. those who "do a great flogging scene". All too often in the rush to become "competent" we lose sight of what separates the student from the master, the ability to create art from the skill. In this class Ramirez will explain how to take a single skill and turn it into a great scene. These concepts will diversify your nature and application of your skill with a single tool to create a lasting impression. In addition to this we will go over new ways to think about your approach and construct to a scene, as well as how to implement psychological aspects into your scene.

Dominant/submissive relationships can be supremely satisfying: you get all the love and support of any good relationship, plus all the power that's implicit in D/S. They're not easy though. D/S requires mad skills, goodwill, self-awareness, and a willingness to be transparent and vulnerable. Max has been doing consensual, deliberate, D/S for 20 years. Not surprisingly, he has a lot to say about the topic. This workshop helps you identify what you want from D/S, and provides advanced skills and resources for finding and nurturing your ideal D/S relationship.

Mental Health Roundtable—Communication—Sat 10:45 AM—1hr 30min—Patriots

The kink world is made up of all kinds of people, who come from all walks of life. People, as a general rule, are messy creatures. No one can ever be 100% emotionally stable 100% of the time in the default world, let alone the scene. Inevitably, our emotional and psychological wellbeing affects how we play and how we relate to the community at large. Some of us have issues related to our brains' hard wiring, some of suffer the repercussions of past trauma, and others still may feel the weight of grief, loss, or stress. This panel is designed to address the challenges that can arise when, for whatever reason, our emotional health is compromised when we engage in kinky spaces. We will learn, share, and connect with one another on issues that are pressing, yet perhaps not widely discussed.

1hr 30min—Bristol

Sit back and watch as that little self reinforcing voice in the back of your bottoms / slave / properties / subject / victims head spins and spins building a teetering tower on top of whatever small mind worm you inserted in their head. A Mindfuck is any situation that creates a disorienting note of uncertainty in your subjects mind or plays on any fears, real, imagined, or both, that you can elicit through any physical or mental means. The goal is to spin a narrative to create an altered reality for the subject in which they are their own worst enemy. This is a discussion, demo and hands-on of how to create a narrative and take advantage of the moment as well as strategies and scenarios that can produce hours and days and even months of fun and terror.

Polyamory In A Power Dynamic—Power and Authority Exchange—Sat 8:00 PM—1hr 30min—Barrington

The practice of polyamory - multiple honest nonmonogamous relationships, especially long-term ones - has its own community, proponents, and theories, some of which are incompatible with deliberately inegalitarian relationships. On the other hand, people in power dynamics often try to leap directly into polyamory with no concept of how to make it work ... and we've all seen their failures littering the Internet forums. How can we combine these relationship styles in ways that are functional and sustainable, and not become just another statistic? What can we learn from the decades of polyamory research, and how do we adapt it in a way that is right for us as masters and slaves? Come with your questions!

Still Kinky After All These Years: Playing Post-TNG—General Skills—Fri 6:15 PM—1hr 30min—Tiverton

As the kink community grows older, more people are having to learn how to adapt their play styles to the changes as their bodies and minds age. Is it different to be in rope at 40 than at 20? How do slave positions & arthritis mix? What happens when your brain can't stop worrying about the mortgage when you want to be in TopSpace? And think of the children! Graydancer, a veteran dancer, grandfather, and crotchety dom, gives some solid suggestions for physical and mental resilience and adaptability to keep your play hot when you're beyond those TNG years. The class is for all roles, genders, and identities, and will combine instruction, demonstration, and discussion to make sure you get what you want out it.

This discussion is open to all levels of the power exchange.

That Ain't Necessarily So: Lies, Exaggerations & Silly Shit You Keep Hearing In the Scene—General Skills—Sat 6:15 PM—1hr 30min—Tiverton

A true dominant will never bottom. We're all safe, sane and consensual. Kinky people are smarter & more creative. Safewords are necessary. Verbs are nouns. There are no rules. There are rules. How many times have you heard people state, with authority and assurance, something that sounds absolute and yet maybe a little fishy? How many times have you passed on a fact or truth or rule you secretly question, or realized much later that you had been misinformed? For a scene supposedly based on open and honest communication (hah!) we tell each other - and sometimes ourselves - a lot of things that ain't necessarily so. Whether you are new and soaking it up like a sponge or an old hand and ready to speak truth to kink, come on in for a look at some of the top deceptions, inventions and whoppers we pass around!

The Art of the Sensual Kimono—Power and Authority Exchange—Sun 1:45 PM—1hr 30min—Barrington

Being dressed in formal Kimono can be a very erotic experience that a couple can share. The art of dressing a woman in a silk Kimono and a tight Obi (Belt) can be experienced in several ways. It can be an act of service to a Domme wanting to have the sensual empowerment of the formal Kimono, or it can be a form of bondage and protocol for a submissive in and of itself. The removal of the kimono can also make for a powerful scene. The choice of where to take it depends on the couple, but it is certainly a powerful experience for those who embrace it. In this workshop we will learn how to dress a woman in formal Kimono and Obi. We will also go over the art of wearing and moving in a Kimono, since the garment properly worn, changes ones posture and how they move. Then we will discuss what all the parts of a proper kimono are, and where to get them, and how to select the right Kimono for you or your partner.

Topping to the Next Level: Hot Negotiation—Power and Authority Exchange—Sat 9:00 AM—
1hr 30min—Rotunda

If you think negotiation is finding out what your bottom likes and doesn't like you're missing the best parts. Negotiation is the foundation for the scene. It establishes consent, builds trust, sets a tone, creates expectations and identifies boundaries. With the right tools, it can also be hot, seductive and wickedly effective. We'll explore: What is the real purpose of negotiation? Where does the negotiation end and the scene begin? What objectives should you pursue when you negotiate? When should your negotiation NOT lead to a scene? What is your negotiation style? Does your style suite your purpose and persona? What are some specific techniques for eliciting engagement, obtaining consent and gathering information? Learn how to negotiate more powerfully and effectively. Your scenes will be better for it.

Topping to the Next Level: How to Push—Power and Authority Exchange—Sun 1:45 PM—1hr 30min—Rotunda

When is it OK to push your bottom? How do you push them safely, ethically, and effectively? If you've got that mastered, try this: how do you push yourself? Topics we'll be covering include: Getting someone outside their comfort zone Helping your bottom receive stimulus and process play Creating tension in your scenes Working with a bottom who asks you to push them harder or says "I'm afraid of this but I want to try it?" Encouraging your bottom to try something they're unsure of Gracefully managing the intensity of a scene Helping bottoms push through barriers Renegotiating during a scene Recognizing "hard limits" vs. "soft limits" Pushing is controversial in our consent-oriented culture, yet it's an intrinsic part of most scenes. Join Max as he addresses this dilemma head-on.

With the right kind of repair work, it is even possible to build deeper connections and lasting healing for everyone involved. Why Are We Clashing Like This?: Exploring Common Communication Upsets—Power and Authority Exchange—Sun 10:00 AM—1hr 30min—Rotunda

Relationships in our BDSM community are often more complex than marriages. The s-type is working 100% to please Master/Dom(me), and Master/Dom/me is endeavoring to guide and grow the slave/submissive. "Stuff" can often get in the way of clear communication. When communications get in trouble, the relationship gets in trouble. This workshop covers some "out-of-the-box" communication issues. About half of this presentation will go over conflicts arising from areas where differences between people are often hidden, such as how we communicate love, how time may be different for each partner, how upbringing may affect your current relationship, how we process information, and so forth. Many tips and techniques are easy to explain and to learn and provide eye-opening insights about ways you and your partner(s) communicate love. Similarly, couples/triads/etc often collide over issues that are not at all obvious to either party. (NOTE: you might wish to bring pen and paper.)
